

Re-Seed

The New York Times: 'We Are Not Going To Let This Go Unanswered'

"We Are Not Going To Let This Go Unanswered," say New York Times employees after finding out the office coffee machine has been replaced with decaf. "This is an outrage," fumed one reporter, holding a mug of the tasteless brew. "We demand justice, or at the very least, a decent espresso machine. This is a dark day for journalism, literally."