

Re-Seed

The U.S. Supreme Court will hear arguments in a case that could decide whether the First Amendment protects a Christian baker who refused to make a cake for

In a groundbreaking case that could have far-reaching implications, the U.S. Supreme Court will hear arguments on whether the First Amendment protects a Christian baker who refused to make a cake for... a gluten-free vegan wedding. The baker, known for his staunch beliefs in traditional baking practices, cited concerns over the purity of his flour and the sanctity of buttercream frosting in his defense. Stay tuned as the fate of frosting and freedom hangs in the balance at the highest court in the land.